THE ELECTION.

The election is over and we have suffered a Bull Run defeat as disastrous as was that terrible battle to the Union cause. The rebels are jubilant and many a loyal man, who, feeling somewhat dissatisfied with the course of the administration, took no part in the conflict, to-day regrets that he, with others, is chargeable, in a great measure at least, with our misfortune.

The result is a surprise to everybody—as much to our opponents as to ourselves. The October elections encouraged them a little, but they did not expect to gain so overwhelming a victory. Our defeat will be disastrous to the cause of liberty in the South, and turn back the tide of progress for twenty years at least. But while some evil results will follow our defeat it is not without its good side as is sometimes said, "there is no great loss without some small gain." This has been a set back to salary grabbers, and those who have been tainted with the Credit Mobilier or other jobs. The last Congress can take a good share of the blame for our defeat, for their course disgusted the people of the whole country, and their senseless legislation against the press no doubt induced many a paper to give their congressman a luke warm support, because they were aware that he had advocated and voted for measures adverse to their and the people's interest. We notice that Mr. Townsend, of Chester county, who, says the Village Record, is the only man in this State who refused to take the back pay, is sent back by an increased majority. In view of the overwhelming defeat that has followed us everywhere is not this evidence that the people have an eye to these things and are determined to reward honesty and punish corruption? What the Republican party wants and must have is new men! We have had enough of such political pirates as Ben Butler of Mass., and Harry White, and others whom we might name in our own State. They may pull the wires and secure the nomination, but the result will be disastrous to our party. The people will not submit to it! The Republican party is composed of men who think for themselves and are not like our Democratic opponents who can be counted on every time, and driven up to the polls like a herd of cattle. In this district we had two Democrats nominated for Congress. One was a man right from the people; a comparatively poor man, whose interests were closely identified with that of the great masses; the other a banker, a railroad president, a monopolist of the most positive kind; yet this monopolist received the vote of this Democratic herd, almost to a man, because, forsooth, he had received the regular nomination. The only counties going for Alexander being the Republican county of Union and the county of Mifflin which is Democratic, by about fifty votes. The result was so close in the State that for several days it was in doubt, but it is now conceded to the Democrats by about five thousand majority. The legislature is Democratic on joint ballot by about sixteen majority which insures a Democratic Senator in place of Hon. John Scott. The Senate is Republican by six majority, but the House is Democratic by twenty-two majority. The Congressional delegation will stand ten Republicans and seventeen Democrats—a Democratic gain of twelve.

The counties in this (the 20th) Congressional district give majorities as follows for member of Congress:

	Alexander.	Mackey
Clinton		2039
Clearfield		1277
Elk		855
Centre		3
Mifflin	100
Union	520
Total	620	4184
		620
Mackey's majority		3484

For the result in this county we refer our readers to the table on our first page. It is as might have been expected. It makes no difference about the fitness of candidates in a Democratic county. If the devil himself was nominated the Democrats would listen to the senseless cry of "stick to the ticket" and vote for him to a man.

HOPE ON!

Republicans do not be discouraged at the unfavorable result of the recent election. It is true the Democracy has gained a victory in many of the states, but it is nothing to be alarmed at. Had the Republican party polled its usual vote, the country, as in former years, would undoubtedly have gone strong Republican. But as it is the Democrats have been active, wide-awake and untiring in their efforts to promote their cause, while the Republican party has been idle, unmindful of its interests, and have allowed their opponents to retire triumphantly from the field.

The Democratic press throughout the country is loud in its cheers and hurrahs over its present temporary success, and even goes so far as to predict a speedy return to power and a Democratic president in '76. Such view as these are ridiculous. For the Democratic party, which long ago received its death stab, to regain its power and elect a Democratic president, is simply an impossibility. True, during the last campaign it has run out its heaviest guns, and exerted itself to the very utmost to carry the country, and the consequence is, it has carried several states and elected a number of Democrats to office, but what does it all signify? That the Democracy has reached the highest round in its ladder; that what little power it had will be consumed in its exertions to gain power at the late election, and that it will at last be brought to a final standstill.

We see in the result of the election what the Democratic party is capable of accomplishing and all it can accomplish. Its fury is spent, and like an exhausted balloon, out of which all the gas has escaped, will be unable to make any further advancement.

The ant lives, moves, and has being so long as it keeps out from under foot, but when it is once trampled upon by a heavier body it is immediately crushed to atoms. Just so with the Democratic party. It has existence, and so long as it keeps out from under foot, will flourish in a measure, but the moment it comes in contact with the more powerful element, the Republican party, it will be trampled upon and ground into dust.

Therefore, Republicans, don't let your spirits flag for an instant, but be ever hopeful, and patiently await the coming dawn two years hence, when Democracy shall go down to its grave, and Republicanism take another formidable leap onward in the path of glory and honor!

THE THIRD TERM SCHEME.

VIEWS OF GERRIT SMITH.—HE THINKS THE CONDITION OF THE COUNTRY MAY DEMAMD GRANT'S RENOMINATION.

From his letter to The Utah Herald, October, 24.

I said that this issue, which Democratic cunning is forcing upon Republicans, is permature. It will, probably, be a year and two-thirds before the Presidential candidates will be put in nomination; and, surely, it will be time enough then to decide whether to renominate Gen. Grant. The condition of the country may then be even more alarming than it is now: and if the name of this world-renowned soldier shall then be more like than any other to keep this devil-inspired Democratic party out of power, can any man give an honest reason why his name should not be preferred? But to foreclose all argument at this point, we are told that even the immortal Washington declined a third term. Would he, however, have declined it had such a devilish Democracy as this, which sprang up after his day, then threatened to come into the ascendant? Moreover, would the people in that case have consented to his declining it? The question; whether in 1876 Gen. Grant shall be the candidate may, in the situation of our country at that time, rise heaven-high above all considerations. It may involve the life or death of the country. It is in this light, that I deny the moral right of any one to say he will not vote for General Grant in 1876. It is in this light, that I deny the General's moral right to say that he will not consent to be a candidate in 1876. We are all to keep step with Providence, and none are to go ahead of it. Let the distant 1876 take care of itself.

I said that this "third term" issue is impertinent as well as premature. It is no less impertinent and unreasonable to require us to decide now whether we go for Grant in 1876, than whether we will then prefer Morton to Conklin or Conklin to Morton. We shall better know Morton and Conklin at that time, and better know which of them the circumstances of the country call for.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

By the President of the United States of America,

A PROCLAMATION.

We are reminded by the changing of seasons that it is time to pause in our daily avocations and offer thanks to Almighty God for the mercies and abundance of the year which is drawing to a close. The blessings of a free government continues to be vouchsafed to us, the earth has responded to the labor of the husbandman, the land has been free from pestilence, internal order is being maintained, and peace with other powers have prevailed. It is fitting that at stated periods we should cease from our accostomed pursuits, and from the turmoil of our daily lives, and unite in thankfulness for the blessings of the past, and the cultivation of kindly feeling toward each other. Now, therefore, recognizing these consider ations, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do recommend to all citizens to assemble in their respective places of worship on Thursday, the 26th day of November next, and express their thanks for the mercy and favor of Almighty God, and laying aside all political contentions and all secular occupations, to observe such a day as a day of rest, thanksgiving and praise.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-seventh day of October, in the year of our Lord 1874, and of the Independence of the United States the ninety-eight.

U. S. GRANT.

By the President,
HAMILTON FISH,
Secretary of State.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, November 10, 1874.

THE CENNTENNIAL.

If the information I give concerning the International Exhibition is not important news to the readers of the Associated Press Letters, then they had better be discontinued as it is my purpose to note from time to time what is being done, and so far as I can ascertain, what is proposed to be done. Some publishers are desirous of having the fullest information on Centennial affairs while others care nothing at all about it. Both cannot be served and my preference is with the former.

From Austria over 800 applications for space have been received from those who purpose exhibiting the skill and industries of that nation.

Mr. C. T. Geesink, Director of the Technological Bureau, at Amsterdam, Holland, writes a letter asking that one-half the space in the Exhibition Building alloted to the Government of the Netherlands for the display of articles produced in that country, be immediately placed at his service as representative of his Government to the American Exhibition, so that exhibitors can at once be assigned their respective positions in that space.

In Boston the leading manufacturers and merchants have just now taken hold of the Centennial with a determination that must arouse all New England to the importance of immediate action: if the manufacturers along the Merrimac intend to compete with those of England, they cannot begin their work of preparation any too soon.

Some time ago the policemen of this city inaugurated a series of theatrical entertainments for the benefit of the Centennial, from which the sum $14,700 was realized. This amount was paid to the Treasurer of the Centennial Board of Finance, a few days ago.

The Tea party which took place in Haddonfield, a small town in New Jersey, netted $700 for the lady managers of the party. In addition to that, $90 worth of Centennial stock was sold. Two hundred and ten dollars are yet required to enable the ladies of Haddonfield to purchase 100 shares of Centennial stock, and that amount they purpose raising at an early day, after which they will challenge any town of an equal number of inhabitants to do as well.

The Franklin Institute Exhibition is to be kept open until the latter part of next week. No less than fifteen thousand persons visit the place each day, and all appear highly delighted with the grand display of American mechanism, although some things are there which tell a tale 'twere better left untold. For instance: William Mann (not the ex-District Attorney, but the well-known blank book manufacturer of that name in this city) has a number of ponderous blank books on exhibition, one of which is a "Court Record" of Jackson county, Ohio, and if crime in that county is anything like as big as the "Record" then an immediate visitation upon that place, of the fate that befell Sodom and Gomorrah, may be expected. The Register of Wills records for Centre County, in this state, is so immense in size that we quill drivers in gazing upon it can form no other conclusion than that the farmers of Centre are all millionaires whose lives are spent in writing wills. Then the same establishment makes a "Ledger" for the Lock Haven Bank, but as I have no stock in that bank I could only look with envy upon the huge ledger that is to note the "profit and loss" of that concern. No less than 100 other tremendous blank books, for 100 different banking houses and public offices are exhibited by this firm, and thus the public funds find their way to this city, to the gratification of at least one Mann.

THE ELECTION.

The result of the election in this city ought to satisfy everybody here, for the reason, that while the Republicans maintained their usual majorities, the Democrats elected the most important candidates. Col. Wm. B. Mann is defeated by Furman Sheppard, Democrat, for District Attorney by 1074 majority, and Dr. Kingston Goddard defeats the Hon. Joseph Ash for Coroner by about the same majority. Mr. Ash was a member of the Pennsylvania legislature, was a "Mysterious Pilgrim," and stood well with the "rank" of the Republican party here; but the "file" evidently failed to properly estimate his public services, for while Mr. Hancock, running on the same ticket with Mr. Ash, was elected Controller by 12,500, the latter was defeated by a practising physician who is totallly unfamiliar with the cares attendant upon the holding of public office.

In the fifth Congressional district which gave about 7,000 Republican majority, a year ago, Mr. Robbins was elected, as I predicted in my last letter he would be. Myers and Harmer pretty evenly divided the Republican vote between them, as Harmer regular Republican had 9,083 votes, and Myers Independent Republican had 7,532 votes, and Robbins had 10,243 votes.

The legislative delegation from this city stood last year, 18 Republicans and 4 opposition; the present delegation stands 34 Republicans and 12 Democrats.

The Evening Telegraph, the leading Republican afternoon journal of this city says:

"The Republican party owes its defeat to the gross mismanagement and criminality of the men who have forced themselves upon it as managers. In the policy pursued in Congress in regard to the finances of the country and the South: in the personal dishonesty and corruption of many prominent Republicans in Congress; in the scandalous outrages by the Republican leaders in the South, and in the attempt of Grant's immediate supporters to force him upon the people for a third term, is to be found a full explanation of the reverses suffered by the party that has so long enjoyed the public confidence."

The Evening Bulletin, a Republican party journal, finds its explanation of the political upheaval "in the inexcusable and cowardly delay of Congress to settle the financial question early last winter; the Credit Mobilier swindle and the effort made by Congress to white wash the participants in that infamy; the back salary grab, the revelations made during the Sanborn and Jayne investigation; the predominance of Butlerism, and the agitation about the third term."

The paramount question amongst leading politicians congregated here is: Who shall be the next Speaker of the House of Congress? As the Speaker of the House, more than any other public man, indirectly influences legislation by the appointment of committees, leading Democratic politicians are thus early giving this important question their serious consideration, and I have not failed to notice a strong feeling in favor of General N. P. Banks of Massachusetts. This gentleman defeated his opponent by 6,000 majority, although he had an adverse majority of 3,000 to overcome; and as Gen. Butler, Speaker Blaine, and Mr. Dawes, made an exhaustive canvass of Banks' district, with the view of defeating him, there is a great deal of admiration for Gen. Banks on the part of those who hate Butler.

The feeling regarding the result of the elections held on Tuesday last is as varied as are the opinions which led to that result. On the part of the professional in office, is an apprehension that his place must soon be filled by an "out" and the country thereby "go to the dogs," and he have to go to work at something far less remunerative in a financial point of view. The "outs," who have for years struggled for this result upon no higher principle than "to the victors belong the spoils," see the full fruition of their hopes which have long been deferred.

The Republican, who is such from principle, sees much good in the result; he regarded his party as being in a dangerous condition and believed that nothing but a radical remedy would effect a cure, and hence he either absented himself from the polls or voted the Democratic ticket. And in conversation with a number of leading Democrats, who have stood as landmarks of the party since Jackson's time, I find the feeling is one of grave seriousness, not altogether unmixed with apprehension, because of the responsibility, now for the first time in 15 years, resting upon them and this apprehension is not lessened because of the feeling of the Western Democratic Congressmen who favor an inflation of the National Currency, and of the Eastern members who are "hard money" men and are for contraction.

This much I can say from my conversations with leading men of both parties: The Democrats—leaders of the party—will endeavor to still further court public favor by carefully regarding the public interests; while those Republicans, who, in this city, have long controlled the politics of the state, are desirous of having the old war Governor Andrew G. Curtin, Marshall, Lowry, M'Clure, Kane and a host of others equally as influential return, not on probation—as Mysterious Pilgrim, Johnny Hill observed a month ago—but as full elders in Israel.

One of the most active Republicans in this city observed to me only this morning that "this campaign on the part of the Republicans in this state was the most ineffectual he had ever seen. When the tide was running against us everywhere in 1863, Andrew G. Curtin, himself, carried the colors of the party from Erie to Delaware, and from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, and the tide was turned back in Pennsylvania."

The most thoughtful men of the Republicans bitterly condemn themselves for permitting the organization of their party to pass into the hands of narrow minded, selfish and dishonest leaders, and the "tide of disaster" which now overwhelms them is causing them to consider how the party re-organized upon the basis it stood when Chase, Greeley, Lincoln, Seward, Schurz, Weed, Wilmot and their colleagues shaped its destinies.

Baron Schwarz Senborn and his wife are now in this city, visiting its places of interest. The Baron was the Director General of the Vienna Exhibition of 1873, and is now the Minister Plenipotentiary from Austria to the American Government.

Possibly nothing could be more gratifying to holders of Pennsylvania Railroad stock, than the semi annual report just made, which shows that for the last six months, after paying all expenses, $5,141,856 are left. Of this sum, $876,333 are held "to provide for contingencies," and $4,255,523 remain as available for dividend on the Capital stock of $68,443,300. As the dividend is to be but 5 per cent. the additional sum of $535,364 is carried to the profit account of the Company, and the contingent fund trust will not be carried to the Pennsylvania legislature.

THAT DREADFUL GAS MAN.

HIS LIFE.

Don't envy the life of a gas man,
In spite of his plunder and pelf
Forever blown up by the public,
And often blown up by himself.

A common man blesses the sunshine,
Delighted with beautiful day;
But the bloated and horrible gas man
Despises whatever don't pay.

All nature to him is but business,
The sun doth a gas-tank appear;
The very stars nothing but burners,
And the moon but a big chandelier.

Whatever rejoices our fellows,
Is only coal ashes and soot,
Unless in the order of business
It fetches him so much a foot.

As a trap, he governs our pockets,
Our houses, our shops and our rights;
The doctors may fuss with our livers,
But he must have charge of our lights.

I read in the life of a gas man
The lessons such people can teach,
Prophetic of brimestone and blazes,
As plain as a parson can preach.

HIS DEATH.

How dreadful the death of a gas man
Surrounded and haunted by those
Whom his plundering charges have swindled
Till conscience bids him repose.

Oh! solemn and awful his passage,
With the implements gathered around
Wherewith he has ruined his neighbors
And lit his own home underground.

The coal and coke and bituman,
The acids, the tar and the steam,
The sulphur, the lime and foul oders
All thronging his terrible dream.

Detestable trenches surround him,
Fierce demons on gas pipes appear,
False meters arise and confound him
And patent jerks hiss in his ear.

If he kicks, both his feet must remind him
Of the feet overcharged in his bill;
While the tick of the clock, like a meter,
Each second must give him a thrill.

HEREAFTER.

At length, when his oxygen fails him,
He sinks with the folks of his sort,
When the devil immediately grabs him
And places him in a retort.

BOIL IT DOWN.

Whatever you have to say, my friend,
Whether witty, or grave, or gay,
Condense as much as ever you can,
And say in the readiest way;
And whether you write of rural affairs,
Or particular things in town
Just take a word of friendly advice—
Boil it down.

For if you go spluttering over a page
When a couple of lines would do;
Your butter is spread too much, you see,
That the bread looks plainly through.
So when you have a story to tell,
And would like a little renown,
To make quite sure of your wish, my friend,
Boil it down,

When writing an article for the press,
Whether prose or verse, just try,
To utter your thoughts in the fewest words
And let them be crisp and dry,
And when it is finished, and you suppose
It is done exactly brown,
Just look it over again, and then
Boil it down.

For editors do not like to print
An article lazily long,
And a general reader does not care
For a couple of yards of song.
So gather your wits in the smallest space
If you'd win the author's crown
And every time you write, my friend,
Boil it down.

THE RAIN AT NIGHT.

Drip, drop! drip, drop!
Hear the rain come down;
Over the valleys, lone and still,
And over the sleeping town;
Over the trees that wave and gleam,
With a murmurous tone and low,
I cannot sleep, and I cannot dream,
I love to hear it so.

Drip, drop! drip, drop!
All night long it goes.
To-morrow will have a greener grass,
And a redder heart in the rose,
With lillies as white as the drifted snow,
Add violets free from stain,
And daises and pansies, all aglow
With the tremulous drops of the rain.

Drip, drop! drip, drop!
List'ning to its fall
I wonder back to the past again,
And hear the loved ones call
Out from the shores where they have gone,
As in the days of yore;
And with them I seem to journey on,
Weary and weeping no more.

Drip, drop! drip, drop!
Down from the sloping eaves,
And over my lost and wasted powers,
My conscious spirit grieves;
And pure resolves, which the Father hears,
And the Angels love to know,
Spring up to bless the gathering years,
In summer-time and snow.

Drip, drop! drip, drop!
So well the sound I love,
I wonder oft if the angels hear
Sweeter music above,
Earth hath its melodies, rich and rare,
And strains of glad delight;
But none, methinks, that will e'er compare,
With the rain-drops in the night,

Drip drop! drip, drop,!
Hear the rain come down;
Over the hill-tops, fast asleep,
And over the sleeping town;
Over the trees that wave and gleam,
With musical tone and low,
I cannot sleep, and I cannot dream,
I love to hear it so.

Our Story Teller.

OUR EVENING PARTY.

I thought there was something in the wind, that cold Monday night, when I got back from the city and found a double supply of my favorite hot buttered muffins awaiting me, and my slippers so nicely aired on the hearth. But I was sure of it when my wife said smiling, "I hope you like the tea, dear; I put an extra spoonful in, because it's such a bleak night, for you;" and when my eldest daughter Molly laughed so very heartily at my old story of the Chinese missionary, which I think so good that I take every opportunity of repeating it.

"Now Molly," said I, as I took down my meerschaum after tea; "now, Molly what is it?"

"What is what, papa?" said Molly; but she blushed and laughed a conscious little laugh, all the same.

"Come," I retorted, "let us have it. What is it you want to coax out of me now?"

"Well, Molly, as papa seems so cunning at finding us out, I think we had better tell him what we have been talking about," said my wife, with a slightly nervous titter.

"A great deal better you most artful of women," said I, with all the sternness I could muster; "and no more compliments to my superior wisdom, if you please. I am quite aware you are only oiling the machinery to make it run your own way. All attempts, too, to bride the court with more muffins will only injure your case. Proceed therefore."

'Well, James,' replied my wife, 'the girls and I have been talking all the afternoon, and —ahem!'

'And all the morning, too, I have no doubt. So far the court quite agrees with you, madam,' I interrupted, blowing out one of my most sarcastic wreaths of smoke.

'These poor things, James, do so want you to give them an evening party—something a little stylish, you know—like other people,' my wife continued, hurrying on like the stream when it has come to the brink of the precipice.

'An evening party!' I repeated in amazemen'.

'Oh yes! do papa,' said Molly, sitting down on the hassock at my feet, and putting her rosy cheek on my knee. She is an admirable hand at coaxing, is Molly.

'Yes dear, why should we not be like our neighbors, or at least sometimes—like Mrs. Vyner, for instance?' pursued my wife, skillfully singling out an acquaintance who was my pet aversion.

'Well, because we can't if we tried; we haven't got the money,' I replied. 'You must surely see what nonsense it is to talk of our being like Vyner, when his partnership in Double X brings him in a couple of thousands a year, and I have barely as many hundreds.'

'Well, but we might just show Mrs. Vyner we know what's what.'

It was a mean advantage which my wife Jane was taking, and she knew it. Mrs. Vyner was from the same county town as myself, and on the strength of her father having had a thousand a year in land (and Heaven knows how much more in rustic stupidity!) had always considered herself entitled to play the part of a superior being toward us. Nor was she contented with thinking this, but was determined we should admit her glorious supremacy in style, house furniture and belongings. In a word she was my special abhorrence; and if there was one thing I should have liked, it would have been to see Mrs. V. 'brought down a peg.' Jane knew this weakness of mine very well, and I consider it an ungenerous action on her part to have appealed to it. However, for the present I resisted the temptation firmly.

In truth, the notion of our giving an evening party was a very ridiculous one. I was secretary of a city company, with about three hundred a year. We had already sacrificed to the graces of London society—appearance—by taking a decent home at Netting Hill, and hard at work, what with Ned's schooling and the 'finishing' of my two daughters, to keep our head fairly above water. So, like a sensible man, I had hitherto always insisted on dining at half past one, and had never received my friends otherwise than at tea and supper, in the plainest of 'plain ways.' If they like to drop in at such times (and many of them did), we were always delighted to see them, and under these circumstances had many a pleasanter chat and laugh, I dare say, than fall to the lot of grander houses. The very freedom of this kind of visiting, the knowledge that you can come and go when you like, do and talk as you like, and that, the more you please yourself the better you will please your host, suit my constitution exactly; and I believe that in liking it I am only one of a vast majority of London gentlemen. For the ladies I dare not speak.

When we went to bed, however, my wife returned to the attack, and did not leave me till she was victorious. Her chief argument now was that we "ought to give Molly a chance;' and Molly thought so herself.—There was young Kelly looked very sweet at her; but how could we expect a respectable young fellow like him to come forward unless he saw we knew somebody and were not quite out of the pale of good society?

'My dear,' said I, 'pray don't put those silly notions into Molly's head. Kelly always seemed to me to be rather spooney on Ellen Vyner, and not at all on Molly.'

'Ah, the Vyners always try to make out that he is quite devoted to them; but I flatter myself I know when I see it—yes, yes, I think so, indeed.

'Well, if you really think we ought to, give Molly this party,' said I, reluctantly.

'Yes, that would be a good excuse for beginning. But I think we ought to give one, every year, for the future.'

I groaned in spirit, and said: 'Pray let us get safely over this before we talk of any more. I confess I think the whole notion is absurd—the expense, the trouble, the probability of a breakdown with such servants as ours. But I suppose you must have your own way."

Accordingly, in the morning, my wife and two daughters formed themselves into a permanent committee of ways and means. They decided that things could not possibly be got ready under a month, and for the whole of that time we were in a state of disturbance. First, it was discovered that the drawing-room curtains were old and shabby, and we must have new ones; then, that the dining room carpet did not suit the furniture "and you would not have people think we have no taste, dear?" said my wife. Now, it was my old book-case that had to be shoved into an unobtrusive corner, where I had to go and hunt for my papers in the dark, next, one nearly broke his neck over a new music-stand, which had arrived that morning, and left in the passage, "only just for a minute, till the carpet was put down," then if any friend came in there was scarcely a single place where one could sit down. In a word, all our quiet, homely, comfortable ways were at an end; and what with upholsterers, servants, etc., we were in a continual state of confusion until the day for the party had arrived.

I never could quite understand how this young Kelly, who was in the civil service, contrived to make so many mothers and daughters to run after him. Perhaps, (as quantity is often preferred to quality) it was only because there was so much of him, for he stood over six feet; but then he was as thin as a lath, and nearly as white, with feeble attempts at the "straw-colored mustache and hay-colored beard" that Thackeray speaks of. More probably the reason was that he had in perfection the cool Ojibbeway manner of the man about town—that affectation of stony indifference which passes for the height of fashion in all except the best circles, where people can dare to be natural. He was never genial—never animated—never even interested; indeed, to my mind, he was more like a machine that had been taught to talk little, than a man; because, to save himself trouble, he seemed to have a pet phrase for everything. All persons below the civil service were, 'Haw, those cads"—the depth of his reprobation, was, "Not good form, you know"—the height of his approval was expressed by 'Tol-lol,' meaning "tolerable;' though once I certainly heard him go so far as to call a thing 'rather jolly.' My youngest daughter, Patty, who is very observant, used to laugh and say that Kelly was very wise to be lackadaisical about everything, because, as he knew so little, and had no feelings and no ideas, if he was not lackadaisical he would be nothing. And from a pretty long acquaintance with him, I can safely say that, if he had any ideas, he was always admirably successful in concealing them. In a word he was quite the hero of certain modern novelists; and the very difficulty of thawing this fashionable icicle made Molly and several other young ladies attempt the enterprise. But as yet the icicle remained an icicle and would melt to no warmth they could apply.

Next after Kelly in our common list came the names of the Vyners—father, mother and two daughters—without whose eyes to observe our success in securing Fred, the triumph would have scarcely been complete. All the rich people of our acquaintance followed; singularly enough, there was not a shadow of doubt about any of these, nor about that tawny young idiot Northcoat, who knew a younger son of a lord. Two budding barristers from the Temple were also passed nem. con.—' they moved in such good society.' I suggested asking the Prince and Princess of Wales, but found my little joke received (for the first time, I must confess) with chilling silence, as the awful gravity of the occasion required.

There was also a charming unanimity about asking some of our less important acquaintances. Thus, poor Miss Graham was asked, because she was so good natured, and 'never objected to play any quantity of dance music.' The Tomlins could carve, and Vickers talks so well, Mrs. Grubbins, too, and the three Miss Grubbinses would be mortally offended if they were left out—so 'there was no help for it, we must have them.'

Other names caused more discussion. I was obstinate, when I found my wife and Molly were positively thinking of leaving out my old school-fellow, Dick Wotherspoon, the best of good fellows, only rather rough in his manners, as most of those enthusiastic artists are. It was not, however, on this account so much that my wife disliked him as the fact that, though over thirty, he seemed to be making no headway at all in life, and was beginning to think he had mistaken his profession. Indeed, he was so poor that I had frequently lent him a five pound note.

But I overruled my wife's objections to him and insisted on his being invited. With his name, our list of forty-five was complete, that number being more than our rooms would hold; but then, as my wife said, 'They would be sure, some of them, to be engaged; and so we might as well have the credit of inviting them as not.'

To be in proper form, we gave a ten day's invitation, and the interval was ruled over by the milliners. From morning to night there was nothing but consultations about bonnet or muslin, mauve and magenta, or critical examinations of patterns or 'fittings on.' For my part I undertook to look after the tea, supper and attendance, for all of which it was absolutely necessary to contract, since we only kept a fat maid-servant of twenty (whom my wife on the strength of being able to boil potatoes hard and reduce mutton chops to cinders, dignified with the name of 'cook') and one little slut of thirteen, scarcely able to lift a slop-pail, whom we called our 'housemaid,'

I must say I never felt myself in such a ludicrously mean position as I did when I was bargaining with the unctious upholsterer in the next street for a stylish supper on hired dishes, to be handed round by three imitation footmen, being the upholsterer's assistants. The whole thing did seem such a sham, like playing peacock with borrowed feathers.

The all-important night arrived at last, and the fever of expectation and anxiety which had held my women-kind all the month reached its height.

Long shall I be in forgetting the preparations and fuss of that dreary evening.—the hurried tea, the laborious dressing, the solemn single knock of the upholsterer's men, like the undertaker bringing a coffin; the frantic appeals of Sarah to 'come and fasten me; the rustle of skirts in the passages; the flying about of distracted cook and housemaid; the staid, methodical movements of the long-visaged waiters. But as the clock struck the fatal hour of 9, we were all assembled in state ready for the first comer, my wife buttoning her white kid gloves, and still red in the face, with her nervousness and exertions. As a proof that her exertions had been attended with some success, I may state that I overheard one of our young barristers telling Northcoat: 'She looked a very handsome Dutch Venus indeed.'

I had scarcely taken my place on the hearthrug when a loud rantan at the door and a hearty voice in the passage announced the first arrival. 'Mr. Wotherspoon!' whispered my wife to me, with a touch of annoyance in her tone; 'he, at any rate, takes care to be punctual—knows no better, I suppose.' When he was ushered in by one of the imitation footmen, he took much the same view of our proceedings as I took myself, and began chaffing me in his free and easy way: 'Well, now, Miller, to think of you coming out in such a swell fashion! What on earth possessed you to begin giving state parties, eh?' But Mrs. Miller, with that increase of dignity which the peach-colored satin always gives her, cut his audacious levity short by asking sharply: 'Well, and why shouldn't we give a party like any one else, Mr.—a—Wotherspoon?' The assumed forgetfulness of his name was a masterpiece, and capitally done, considering she had never practiced the art of snubbing before. At all events, poor Dick seemed to have the ground taken from under him at once, and he subsided into a corner near Patty, where he seemed to be better welcomed.

But hark! the roll of wheels—' the brazen thunders of the door'—soon not intermittent, but continuous—and we are presently in the thick of it. Kelly came about 10, a little stiffer than usual; but not till half-past did the Vyners sweep into the room, Mrs. Vyner overwhelmingly courteous and patronizing in her black velvet dress. But she soon contrived (without saying so) to make us understand that she wondered we could venture to invite her, and that she considered it no little condescension on her part to come.

There could be no doubt that my daughter Molly and Ellen Vyner were the prettiest girls in the room. Yet it was amusing to note the difference in their style and appearance. Molly, whose good-natured, rosy face above her light-blue dress seemed like a cherub's floating in the sky, was radiant, full of life, and sweet as a new-blown rose; but she was a little too eager to please, and tried too evidently to make everything go off well. Miss Vyner, on the other hand—pale, slight, and with finely-chiseled features—moved through the rooms a very statue of dignity and self-possession. Quiet, perfectly well-bred, and polite, she rather discouraged the advances of her admirers, including Kelly; but her very discouragement seemed only to make them more attentive. If she had a fault, it was that she evidently knew her own value so well, she might have been a duke's daughter instead of a brewer's, though, indeed, I believe Vyner and many of his business think a brewer or a banker, nowa-days a greater grandee than any nobleman.

I am glad to say the party itself notwithstanding our misgivings, went off without any particular hitch. In fact, it seemed very like thousands of similar affairs given by people of the middle classes who know no better. There was the same stiffness and reserve at first, since in such a miscellaneous gathering very few of the guests were acquainted with each other; the same gradual thawing as we got up a little dance, (which with hypocrisy that deceived nobody, we pretended to extemporize); the same intense heat in the rooms, the same jamming in the doorways, the same forlorn groups in the corners, groups that looked as if they knew they ought to be enjoying themselves and were not.

And when the novelty of the position wore off, I did not find it very difficult to play the part of host. So I tried to say a pleasant word to any guest that seemed dull, arranged a couple of whist-tables for the elderly people, and in fact worked hard generally at amusing everybody. My wife, however, as the hours went on without mishap, grew prouder and prouder of her hired grandeur, and indeed, like old Weller's shepherd, 'swelled visibly' in magnificence of deportment and manner. In my hearing alone she told six different persons that there were forty-five invited; but unfortunately so many were engaged.'

'I think you ought rather to say fortunately,' replied that disagreeable Mrs. Vyner, as my wife made this remark to her. 'My dear Mrs. Miller, how could you get more people into these rooms? And a crowd is so very unpleasant,' she added, fanning herself vigorously.

When I took Mrs. Vyner in to supper, she said blandly, 'I do not know, Mr. Miller—yes, champagne, please—I never knew before that you kept a footman;' looking hard at one of the upholster's mutes.

'Why he is like Vyner's small ale—for very occasional use only,' I replied, determined she should not have all the sarcasm to herself, and knowing she hated any reference to her husband's business.

She took her revenge, however, on my wife by saying to her soon afterwards across the table; 'How very nice these whips are, Mrs. Miller! I must get you to give me the receipt.' Of course, the odious woman knew very well that the creams, like everything else, were furnished by the upholsterer 'who did for us;' but she succeeded in making my wife blush and feel very uncomfortable for the time.

The dance was kept up with spirit till 4 or 5 o'clock, and the young people at any rate, especially my daughters Molly and Patty, enjoyed this part of the business most thoroughly. Toward the end, however, Molly became rather sulky because Fred danced so much with Miss Vyner, and my wife was highly indignant at Dick Wotherspoon's hanging about Patty. Indeed, she would almost have proceeded to open hostilitees if I had not stopped her, and, as it was, Wotherspoon evidently guessed her motive in always disturbing his confabulations with Patty, and left early.

When our guests were gone we were soon in bed, from which we did not rise till noon. Even then Patty was tired, and Molly had a headache—due to Miss Vyner, I suspected. I too, was disgusted with the hypocritical pretenses and bother of the whole thing. My wife alone was radiant, and thought the party a great success, owing to her admirable management. She was sure, too, that Kelly on leaving had thanked her, and pressed her hand with a cordiality most unusual with him; on this ground she told Molly to take courage, and all would be right.

And her exultation was increased by several of our guests who called in the afternoon, and lisped the usual phrases on such an occasion. 'Delightful gathering.' 'Enjoyed ourselves so much.' 'Quite a success.'

When Mrs. Vyner called, however, she threw a little damp on my wife's ardor. She pretended to praise—she was always more malicious when she did that.

'How very good of you to take all this trouble—so unexpected too!' she said. 'And how very well you did manage, considering you were quite unaccustomed to this sort of thing! It must have been a most formidable undertaking. I'm sure. And you, Mr. Miller, were not very much behind-hand with your work in consequence.

Generally I could give Mrs. Vyner a Roland for her Oliver; but on the present occasion my conscience sided so much with her in her politely-veiled sarcasm—I mean, I thought so just—that I really could only mutter out some commonplace answer.

'I'm afraid you're a little tired with your exertions, Mrs. Miller; indeed, they must have been immense,' continued the merciless virago, seeing that I was in no mood for reply. 'But I'm sure, it was very kind of you to try so hard to give us a pleasant evening. And as you are such very old friends, I think I may tell you a little secret, just to show you how much we are indebted to you. As, I dare say you know what it is. Fred Kelly proposed to Ellen, last night, and it is all arranged—so kind of you I am sure to give him the opportunity. And we think it will make a pretty good match, don't you, Molly?'

Poor Molly held out till Mrs. Vyner was gone, when she made a rush to her own room, with a tear in each eye. She had scarcely left us when a double knock announced the postman.

'It is from Wotherspoon,' I said opening the letter. 'Do you know I think our new splendors, Jane, make you seem a little rude to him, yesterday?'

'Ah well! if I am never rude to any one of more consequence than Mr. Wotherspoon, it will be no great matter,' she replied, contemptuously. 'But I am grieved and vexed beyond measure about this young Kelly, Ellen Vyner, indeed!'

'Dear me!' said I as I glanced over Wotherspoon's letter, 'you like to hear this, I think, Jane.' So I read it to her.

'Dear Miller—I am very sorry to be obliged to leave without calling to bid you good-bye, but I have just met some friends who are going to Italy and I have decided to go with them. As we start to-morrow, I am in an awful hurry, and I shall be away at least two years.'

'And a very good thing, too,' interrupted my wife. 'Do you know that I am quite sure he would have made Patty an offer last night, if I had not looked so well after her that I never gave him a chance? I have always wondered, James, you never would see the depth of that man. However, we shall be safe from him for some time, it seems.

'Quite safe,' said I.

'There were one or two things that I particularly wished to tell you, last night; but in such a crowd I had no opportunity, and"—

'There, I told you, James!' broke in my wife again. 'One of those things you may depend on it, was a proposal, and I am glad I stopped it.'

'All right, only do let me finish—'

'And, to tell you the truth, I was a little nettled (you know I was always too sensitive) because I thought Mrs. Miller, last night, scarcely treated me with quite kindness due an old friend. So I ran away early and did not say what I intended. Perhaps it is as well. One bit of news about me, however, I am sure you will be glad to hear, and I feel that I ought not to go away without telling you. A few days ago, to my immense delight and astonishment, I received a lawyer's letter informing me that I was heir-in-law to a distant relative who had died in Jamaica; so that I have dropped all at once into five thousand a year. Rather jolly, isn't it? But I won't forget all your five pound notes; and if ever you want a little cash, old fellow, just you ask your old and obliging friend,

R. WOTHERSPOON.'

"Five thousand a year!" groaned my wife now. "But how could I know, James? Why didn't Mr. Wotherspoon tell us?"

"Well, probably, dear, because you stopped him so adroitly," said I laughing maliciously, "and perhaps he first wished to see whether we cared for him without his money."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear! couldn't I write a note of apology and bring him back?"

"No; if I know Mr. Wotherspoon, it is too late. As you said, Jane, he is too deep for that."

"Ah, well," said she, quite piteously "And this is all the reward one gets for putting one's self out of the way and going to all this expense to give one's friends a treat."

Our motive, I could not help thinking, had not been quite as disinterested as my wife now wished to make it out. Few people do give parties, I fear, on the pure principles of Pickwickian benevolence. However we had a lesson, and I am happy to say our first evening party was our last.

THE KINGS OF BUSINESS.

How Men Become Rich—Characteristic Anecdotes of Rich Men.

The last time I was in Wall street, says Parton in his lecture on Kings of Business, I heard a noted banker say with great earnestness of manner: "My ambition is to be a perfect banker. I would rather retire from business with only a single million, with the reputation of a good banker, than to be ever so rich without that reputation.

'Only a single million.' You cannot imagine how small that million seemed when he uttered those words—a kind of honorable poverty—a Diogenes tub with a man inside of it. You thought of his children boasting that their parents were poor but honest. I can well believe the familiar story of John Jacob Astor's saying that a 'man who is worth $250,000 is just as well off as though he were rich.' The mind easily becomes habituated to these magnitudes. Thomas Brassey, the English railroad contractor, had at one time 80,000 men in his employ, whose wages came to about $500,000 a week, and they were at work in eight countries—England, France, Spain, Italy, Venezuela, Canada and Australia. He wrote a note one day ordering 10,000 wheelbarrows and 3,000 wagons. In the course of forty years he constructed, or helped construct, 150 railroads, and he did all this with less fuss and worry than many a man experiences in running a peanut stand. We have a greater than Thomas Brassey in Cornelius Vanderbilt, who, at eighty, quietly makes up his mind that the time has come for us to have a four-track railroad between New York and Buffalo. Some one said to him, 'I don't know of any four-track roads.' 'I don't,' said he. 'But the Central must have two more tracks, and I hope to live to see them laid.' And probably he will. The care of an estate of $40,000,000 and the management of all his railroads only occupy him two hours a day, and during that short time he does not appear to be very busy. By three o'clock he is usually on the road, erect, magnificent, driving a pair of fast horses, in an open wagon, unattended.

There are higher spheres of labor than making railroads in which the great resources of our kings of business are employed with widely beneficial effects of another kind.

And now the question occurs, Who are these uncrowned monarchs of the modern world? What are they? Where do they originate? By what means do they accumulate these great resources? In what respect do they differ from the men who attempt a similar career and fail out of the course disabled and defeated? Is it their virtue or their want of virtue that gives them success? These are interesting questions, because these men are the masters of our modern world. They carry the purse and pay everybody, and it is apparently a law of nature that the hand which signs the check wields the power.

As a rule, these kings of business begin life near the bottom of what is called the social scale. They generally begin very poor. Crabb Robinson records that the late Lord Southampton applied to the Bishop of Llandaff for advice how to bring up his son so that he would get forward in the world. 'I know of but one way,' replied the Bishop: 'Give him parts and poverty.' 'Well, then,' said the father, who was noted for his free living, 'if God has given him parts, I will manage as to the poverty.' Another English nobleman, Lord Derby, mentioned a curious circumstance in point the other day. At a gathering in Australia four people met, three of whom were shepherds on a sheep farm. One of these had taken a degree at Oxford, another at Cambridge, and the third at a German university. The fourth was their employer, a squatter, rich in flocks and herds, but scarcely able to read and write, much less to keep his own accounts. But I venture to say the squatter knew the sheep, knew land, knew markets, knew wool. It is an unquestionable fact that both in Australia and America these founders of huge business are, as a rule, unlettered men, whose college was a rough, hard, long grapple with material things.

It is also true that they usually take hold, very early in life, of some plain work that lies under their noses, and keep to that until it issues into something large and magnificent. The wealthiest and most powerful house of Europe is that of Rothschields, who provide for belligerent kings the sinews of war. The founder of the house, 100 years ago, was a boy in his father's money changing office at Frankfurt on the Main. He discovered that some of the coins in which his father dealt had an artificial value as specimens, and he used to spend the first day of the week—the Jew's idle day—in picking out such coins from the mass for sale to collectors. That was the beginning of his career. He took hold, you will observe, of the work that lay most obviously before him.

Isaac Rich, who left a million and three-quarters a year or two ago to found a college in Boston, began business thus: At eighteen he came from Cape Cod to Boston with $3 or $4 in his possession, and looked about for something to do, rising early, walking far, observing closely, reflecting much. Soon he had an idea: He bought three bushels of oysters, hired a wheelbarrow, found a piece of board, bought six small plates, six iron forks, a three-cent pepper box, and one or two other things. He was at the oyster-boat, buying big oysters, at 3 in the morning, wheeled them three miles, set up his board near a market and began business. He sold out his oysters as fast as he could open them, at a good profit. He repeated this experiment morning after morning, until he had saved $150, with which he bought a horse and wagon and had five cents left.

'How are you going to board your horse?' asked a stable-keeper, who witnessed this audacious transaction.

'I am going to board him at your stable.'

'But you're a minor,' replied the acute Yankee. 'And, mind, I can't trust you more than a week.' The next morning the lad, who had established a good credit with oystermen, bought 12 bushels of remarkably fine oysters, which he sold in the course of the day at a profit of $17. So he was able to pay for his horse's board. And right there in the same same market he continued to deal in oysters and fish for 40 years, became king of that business, and ended by founding a college; thus affording a new illustration of Prof. Agassiz's theory that the consumption of fish is serviceable to the brain.

So Astor, on reaching New York with his capital of seven flutes and a few shillings, goes to work beating furs for two dollars a week, and keeps at furs, until he is able to build Astor Houses and Astor Libraries. So Girard finding himself at Philadelphia during the Revolutionary war, when the town was held by the British troops, all ordinary business being paralyzed, falls to work bottling claret for the English officers, and followed up that clue till it made him the chief merchant of Pennsylvania. William Chambers, the founder of the great publishing house of Edinburgh, coming out of his apprenticeship at nineteen with five shillings capital, set up a bookstall with £10 worth of books, all bought on credit. George Stephenson, brakeman to a steam engine at the mouth of a mine began, it is true, by soling his sweetheart's shoes and demanding a kiss in payment. But this was only a youthful sally. Her name, however, was Ann, and she was a servant girl. But soon he began to tinker at his steam engine, and kept on in that way until he invented the locomotive, and created, with the aid of his son, the railway system.

Why are the Rothschields the first bankers of the world? Because in a business career of 102 years, they have never failed to keep an engagement. Why is the Chemical Bank in New York the most solid and profitable bank in America? Because in the panic of 1837, when all other banks ceased to pay gold for their notes, that bank did not and never has. When gold was at 286, if you presented one of its $50 notes at the counter, and asked for its equivalent in gold, you got $50 dollars in gold. When Cornelius Vanderbilt, at 18, learned that to him had been awarded the contract for conveying supplies to the different forts in New York Harbor, he stared with astonishment. He had disdained to compete with the other boatmen in price, but had offered to do the work on just terms. The commissary, observing his surprise, said to him, 'Don't you know why we have given this contract to you?' 'No,' replied the youth. 'Why it is because we want this business done, and we know you'll do it.

In the whole world I do not believe there can be found a business 50 years old which is not founded on the principle of rendering an equivalent for all it receives. Honesty is the rock upon which all enduring success rests.

I was very much struck during the late panic with three rules which Vanderbilt gave to men on Wall street; 1. Never use what is not your own. 2. Never buy what you cannot pay for. 3. Never sell what you haven't got.

From what agonies of apprehension and remorse and shame men would be saved by the observance of these rules.

Next to honesty, I think we must place as a condition of kingship in business, knowledge. I have observed that the men who take the lead in affairs, whatever else they lack, are sure to possess a most minute and entire knowledge of their branch of business—such a knowledge as can be got only by taking hold and doing every part of it. Girard, as a sailor, mate and captain, had visited every port with which as a merchant he traded. He knew the men, the people, the markets. Astor, with a pack on his back, had tramped over the whole fur-productive region of New York and the lake country. No man ever knew furs as he knew them. He loved a fine fur as a connoisseur loves a fine picture. Stewart has the best touch for silk or velvet and the best judgment of colors of any man in his establishment. All the Harpers, young and old, begun by setting type and working the press.

The late John Walter, proprietor of the London Times, called at the office of the paper one day before going to the House of Commons, of which he was a member. While there a courier brought in a package labeled "Immediate and important," which he found to contain news of the greatest interest. It happened that all the compositors had gone to dinner. He took the dispatch to the composing-room, set the type himself, and by the time the men came back he had it all ready to go into a second edition, which was immediately issued. He knew the business from top to bottom—knew it in his brain and knew it in his fingers.

So Horace Greely, on returning from his first visit to Europe, made up the steamer's news for the Tribune before she entered the harbor. The steamer arrived at 6 in the morning, after all the papers had been printed. Going straight to the office he, too, found the compositors all gone home and the pressmen just preparing to go. He began forthwith to set the news in type, and he never left the case till it was all ready for an extra. Then he started up town to see his family. Old Jonas Chickering, old Mr. Steinway, could make a piano from the legs to the keys, every part outside and inside. The original Delmonico was himself an admirable cook. A thousand examples could be given, showing that the capital of a house of business is not money, but brains.

TWO REBEL FLAGS.—The Georgia State Agricultural Society, whose fair was held at Atlanta a few days since, offered three premiums for the best drilled military companies. The first, $500; Second, $250; Third, $150. The "Oglethorp Guards," of Agusta, carried off the first prize. The prize was awarded this company, not so much for its superior drill, but because it marched into the grounds with two Rebel flags flying! Comment is as useless as it would be unnecessary.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar-coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution or diet or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor, and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action, or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back, and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion, and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It removes the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and languor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS ON THE LATE ELECTIONS.

The Philadelphia North American Republican, says: we present this morning the returns of the elections held yesterday. It is obvious from these that the Republican contest has been under circumstances of great embarrassment, without that harmony of sentiment and that unity of action so necessary to success on so great a field. It has seldom happened that local issues and dissensions and personal animosities have been so predominant in an election of such national importance and interest as in this one. The want of mutual confidence among the Republicans in Congress and the administration on the financial question appears to have prevented any well organized canvass, and indeed such was the state of affairs that neither the National Republican Committee nor the Congressional Committee took any active part in the campaign.

How deeply we deplore the untoward result of this contest we need scarcely say. We believe it would have better comported with the interest of the nation to have continued the ruling power in the hands that led the country from slavery to freedom and from civil war to peace and re-union. But it is through adversity of this kind that great organizations are led to strengthen and purify themselves for achievements demanding higher powers than they had previously developed. The dark hours of the Kansas struggle, the far darker and more disheartening periods of the civil war, and the times when the slave power before the war seemed to be overshadowingly triumphant only nerved the great body of the justice loving people to more resolute action and led to more grand and glorious results. So we think it will be with the Republican party: for that a party embodying so much of right principles and so many devoted and ennobling purposes can be permanently cast down by such a reverse as the present is impossible.

The New York "Times" prints a lengthy leader, from which we take the following: The result of the elections in this and other Eastern States will not be a surprise to anybody, except, perhaps, to a few persons at Washington. The great and signal defeats of Tuesday virtually began last year. The panic did much to injure the Republican party, but the effects of that disaster might have been greatly lessened had a wise course been adopted by Congress in relation to the finances. The mismanagemen at the Treasury, the Sanborn frauds and the general series of blunders in nearly all the public departments were in the meantime causing incalculable mischief. The first two nominations for chief justice were shocking blunders, and disgusted the whole people.

The administration was making enemies and losing friends every day. The party was handed over to the Platts and Butler. And just when the disappointment and irritation of the people became most marked, the paper at Washington, which has come to be known as a mere speaking-tube of the White House, was set to work crying out for General Grant for a 'third term.' What could any sane man anticipate from such astounding folly except the overwhelming defeats of Tuesday? In this State a Republican majority of 55,000 has been turned into a Republican defeat of 42,000, a change of 97,000 votes. The gentlemen who have had the Republican party in charge during the past two years will be obliged to admit to-day that they have nearly strangled it.

It would be useless to dwell on these obvious lessons except in the hope that they will be thoughtfully pondered at Washington and elsewhere. If the greatest party ever known to this country is to be saved from utter destruction two years hence, and if it is not to pass from history disgraced as well as defeated, the leaders and managers must make a thorough change in their policy. It would be still wiser to change many of the leaders themselves. Fortunately the people have disposed of Butler as they would have swept away some other prominent persons, in both House and Senate, if their votes could have been brought to bear directly upon them. There is yet time to prevent a still more crushing blow in 1876, but to do that will tax the combined efforts of the best minds in the Republican party. The opposition will now have an opportunity of producing a policy of their own, and they will find it harder to do that successfully than to attack the measures of Republicans. We shall probably witness the development of the ideas which were put forward in the platforms of Ohio and Indiana, and the effect of that upon our financial system cannot fail to be very great. The West and South always controlled the Democratic party, and they will continue to control it. What these sections of the country demand now is inflation combined with partial repudiation. Whether the people will deliberately approve of that policy when it is submitted to them without any disguise still remains to be ascertained.

SAYS the Wmsp't Sun: "Look out for Democratic cocks. They are very saucy, and are quite fashionable now-a-days." Yes, and even that notorious old rooster, "Cock" eye Butler is attracting considerable attention just now.

TWO REBEL FLAGS.—The Georgia State Agricultural Society, whose fair was held at Atlanta a few days since, offered three premiums for the best drilled military companies. The first, $500; Second, $250; Third, $150. The "Oglethorp Guards," of Agusta, carried off the first prize. The prize was awarded this company, not so much for its superior drill, but because it marched into the grounds with two Rebel flags flying! Comment is as useless as it would be unnecessary.

THE New York World says as a result of the late elections, the people want hard money and free trade. What say you mechanics and working men? Will the Democratic free trade organs please tell us, how soon, under free trade, the country will be enabled to work up the surplus stock of manufactured articles now lying in this country awaiting a market.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

GOLD 1.10¼

The "Election" has been the disturbing element in mercantile circles during the last week in the cities, and business in all departments was light. Money continues abundant at low rates of interest, but there appears to be no active employment for it in any new enterprise. The continued excess of currency over the demand at a period when they are accustomed to stringency, is a direct consequence of the relaxation of Industrial and business enterprises througout the whole country. The season is now so far advanced that no substancial advance can be anticipated until the opening of spring. But in the meantime all the signs are in favor of a more wholesome business when the demand for goods does arrive.

Notwithstanding the great depression of business, the Philadelphia banks have declared Semi-annual dividends averaging from 3½ to 10 per cent. It is claimed that the city National Banks adhere to legal rates of discount, six per cent. If city banks can declare such handsome dividends on such low rates of discount, it would be an item of interest to the public to know what dividends country banks declare which charge all they can get. It has been said in the street that a private banker declared that his bank had made more money since the panic commenced, than the had ever before which declaration would have been more satisfactory if the figures were produced.

The amount of capital divided upon by the State banks in Philadelphia at the present semi-annual period is $14,955,650, and the aggregate of dividends is $808,500, against $14,767,000 of capital, and $863,710 o dividends at the May period, being an increase of $188,650 in capital and $4,790 of dividends for November. The Central National Bank increased its dividend 1 per cent, and all the others made the same dividends as at the May period.

The Pennsylvania Rail Road Co. has been making a desperate effort to redeem its fallen fortunes, the Directors of which have recently declared a semi-annual cash dividend of five per cent clear. of taxes.

The operations of the Company east of Pittsburgh for the past six months were:

Gross receipts	$19,696,642
Expenses	12,450,963
Net earnings	$7,345,678
Income from investment	2,188,707
Total net receipts	$8,444,385
Interest upon bonds, outstand. scrip, dividends, &c	4,302,529
Balance	$5,141,856
Revenue to meet deficiencies	876,353
Available for dividend	$4,265,523
Capital stock, $68,443,300, at 5 per cent	$3,422,165
State tax on same	307,994
	3,730,159
Balance of profits an'l loss	$535,364

These figures are most satisfactory; they cover a half-year in which business was probably never in the history of the company so much paralyzed

There is no doubt but there has been a great falling off in the traffic of the Penna. railroad with a corresponding deficit in the receipts. To enable the company to make the foregoing exhibit, all improvements have been stopped, no new rolling stock has been put on the road during the year and every imaginable expense that could be dispensed with has been cut off for the purpose of augmenting the dividends, this to, in a great measure at the actual expense of the rolling stock. If business should revive next year and the company should be called on to move as much tonage as they have during some years previous, they have not sufficient cars to do it. The grain trade is about as unsatisfactory to farmers as it can possibly be. The demand in Europe last year so enhanced prices here and made such ready sale that farmers can hardly realize the true situation this season. We devote considerable space to an article on wheat which we copy from the New York Tribune and invite the careful perusal of all those interested.

GRAIN.—The features of our wheat market the past week have been rather more satisfactory to holders than for some weeks past, and have presented a pleasing contrast to those of the proceeding one, though the aggregate business has been moderate. The falling off in the movement at the West and the uncertainty in regard to future rates of freight with the interior during the Winter months have inspired confidence in the future and the offerings have been quite light, and the principal receivers have withheld their Wheat from the market; this, with some decline in ocean freights, has given holders a decided advantage, and notwithstanding the liberal arrivals and material increase in our stock, prices have improved, and we have had a more general demand, in part speculative. We notice a wide range in the prices of Spring, and the quality generally is much below that of the last crop, hence we have a very wide range in price. Old Spring is inquired after, but we find it in very limited supply, and prices entirely nominal. Good and Extra White Wheats have been in fair demand for export at improved prices, and we find the stock of winter is much reduced. Our late advices from London allude to our Amber and Choice Red Winter, and commend it highly, and during the month of October prices of Winter have improved, notwithstanding their liberal import. The import into Great Britain from continental ports, have thus far been limited, but much larger supplies are looked for during this and next month, so that prices are likely to rule low during the Winter, as the quantity afloat from California and Oregon is considerably in excess of last year, while from Australia, Chili, and Morocco there is nothing hence there is some reason to hope that the stocks at Liverpool and London on the 1st of January next will not be equal to those of the 1st January last. The English farmers' deliveries have been unusually large during the past two months, and although their crop is a full average it is found that a larger proportion of it is of ordinary quality than is usual in good crop seasons, and it is stated that much more of it will be fed to cattle with an admixture of Barley, Peas, Root Crops, &c., than is usual, and good authorities give it as their opinion that the feeding of Wheat to cattle is very general throughout the Kingdom, and as a consequence they estimate a falling off in their farmers' deliveries of 40 per cent; if this should prove correct it will be of great importance to this country. From France and Germany we learn that their markets have improved for Wheat, and the shipments hence for French and German ports are likely to do better than was expected. The shipments from South Russia continue to be active, and there are now in transit from the Black Sea and from the Azof for the United Kingdom 1,073,210 bush. of Wheat and the shipments will probably continue large for three or four weeks. From California the shipments are still liberal, but are likely to average less during the Winter months than last year.

We notice long articles here and at the West in various papers condemning our farmers for holding back their Wheat crop; these editors seem to think that farmers can or should market their entire Wheat crop at once to the exclusion of all other crops, forgetting that we have less than half the export demand that we had last year. If our farmers had marketed 3,000,000 bush. more Wheat up to the present time than last year, what would have been the probable price here and at Liverpool? We feel confident the price would have been 20c. per bushel less than now; and what could we have done with 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 bushel, more? We could not dispose of it at any price, because we could not negotiate the exchange to pay for it, and business would certainly have been at complete "standstill;" this we feel certain would have been the practical result. Many editors get hold of an idea about business and finance and write glowing articles that will not stand a moment's criticism, at once showing an absence of any practical knowledge of the subject discussed. The exports of the week are 554,050 bush, against 1,044,894 bush, the corresponding week last year. The quantity of Wheat in sight has fallen off very much, and is 10,350,392 bushel against 8,705,470 bushel the corresponding week last year; this desparity is very marked, is very important, and cannot fail to attract the attention of intelligent merchants and millers. To-day, the markets opened stronger for good straight and choice Spring, the latter in demand at higher figures; Common, very dull and tame; Winter is boyant and fairly active, especially Amber. The market closes better and fairly active, the demand chiefly for export though fair for milling; Winter is stronger and in fair demand. The sales are 242,000 bush., at $1.04a1.05 for Rejected Spring; $1.06a1.07 for No. 2 Chicago Spring, $1.04 a1.05 for No. 3 Chicago Spring; $1.10a1.12 for No. 2 Milwaukee, the latter for choice and the former for fair, to arrive; $1 24 for No. 1 Minnesota, to arrive; $1 22a $1 23 for Red Western; $1 24a$1 25 for Amber Western; $1 26a$1 27 for White Indiana; $1 29 a$1 26 for White Michigan; $1 25 for Amber Michigan; $1 20 for White Canadian; $1 25 for White Genesee and $1 26 for Amber.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A MAN IN RUINS.—One of the saddest spectacles in the world is a human being shattered and broken down by the use of ardent spirits. But the damage may be repaired, the ruin restored to perfect soundness, by a course of that most powerful of all invigorants, DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS. Beware of those "tonics" of which rum is an element. They aggravate disease and promote decay. 42-4w

BY a special act of the Legislature of Kentucky, March 16, 1871, the trustees of the Public Library of that State, located at Louisville, were authorized to give five gift concerts in its aid. Four of these concerts have already been held, and the fifth and last is now positively and unequivocally announced to take place on the 30th of November, 1874. As no other concert can ever be held under this charter, the management have planned it upon a scale of unprecedented liberality. No less than $2,500,000 are to be distributed among the ticket holders, by lot, under the supervision of Ex-Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette, associated with several leading citizens of Kentucky. The highest prize is $250,000, and this fortune will become the possession of the lucky holder of a ticket costing only $50.

There are twenty thousand gifts altogether, something for everybody; and these will certainly be distributed on the 30th of November, as the sun rises that day, and with the utmost fairness. Gov. Thos. E. Bramlette, Louisville, Kentucky, is the manager, and Messrs. Thomas H. Hays & Co., New York, the Eastern agents for the sale of tickets.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION COUGHS, AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus affects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DISPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, &c.

The Tonic produce a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle, and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, &c.

These Pills are alterative, and produces a healthy action of the liver, without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more efficacious in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption, as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create a healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic gives tone and strength to the stomach, makes a digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as those explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

DR. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner SIXTH and ARCH STS., Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed 43-4t

WE would not recommend the frequent or constant use of any medicine. It is important to take even a good article judiciously. Parsons' Purgative Pills are safe, prompt and reliable as a laxative or cathartic.

Base ball is undoubtedly good exercise and capital amusement, but it often occasions bunged eyes, broken skins and blistered hands. We can tell you that in all such cases, if Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is resorted to, it will reduce the swelling and stop the pain.

JURUBEBA?

ARE YOU

Weak, Nervous or Debilitated?

Are you so Languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making?

Then try JURUBEBA, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts so beneficially on the secretive organs as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to let the sufferer fall to a lower depth of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives such a healthy tone to the whole system as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness; the patient experiences no sudden change, no marked results, but gradually his troubles

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently steal away."

This is no new and untried discovery, but has been long used with wonderful remedial results, and is pronounced by the highest medical authorities, "the most powerful tonic and alternative known."

Agricultural.

Don't—Pray Don't.

Don't tell the little one, who may be slightly willful, that "the black man will come out of the dark cellar, and carry it off if it does not mind." Don't create a needless fear, to go with the child through all the stages of its existence.

Don't tell the little five year old Jimmy "the school ma'am will cut off his ears"—"pull out his teeth"—"tie him up"—or any of the horrible stories that are commonly presented to the childish imagination. Think you the little one will believe anything you tell him after he becomes acquainted with the gentle teacher who has not the least idea of putting these terrible threats into execution?

Don't tell the children they must not drink tea because it will make them black, while you continue to use it daily. Your example is more to them than precept; and while your face is as fair as a June morning, they will scarcely credit the oft told tale. Either give up drinking the pleasant beverage, or give your children a better reason for its non-use.

Don't tell them they must not eat sugar or sweetmeats, because it will rot their teeth. Pure sugar does not cause the teeth to decay; and sugar with fruits is nutritious and healthy, notwithstanding the "old saw" to the contrary. The case of city children is often cited; the cause of their pale faces, and slight constitution being an overamount of sweetmeats with their diet, when the real cause is want of pure air and proper exercise.

Don't tell the sick one that the medicine is not bad to take, when you can hardly keep your own stomach from turning "inside out" at the smell of it. Better by far tell the simple truth, that it is disagreeable, but necessary for his health, that you desire him to take it at once. Ten chances to one he will swallow it with half the trouble of coaxing and worry of words; and love you better for your firm, decided manner.

Don't teach the children to tell white lies to each other and to their neighbors. Guard your lips and bridle your tongue if you desire the coming generation truthful. Truthfulness is one of the foundation stones of heaven. Remember the old, old book says "no liar" shall enter within the gate of the beautiful city. There is no distinction between white lies and those of a darker hue. A falsehood is an untruth, whether the matter be great or small.—Rural New Yorker.

Why Wet Land should be Drained.

Free access of atmospheric air to every part of the soil is of the utmost importance. The air assists the various processes of discomposition by which dead animal and vegetable matter is made to yield products of the hightest value as elements of the food of plants. If the soil is full of water, of course the air cannot get into the soil to perform this office. Hence, drains by drawing off the water from beneath, gives the air free admission to the soil, and each shower of rain, by displacing the air already present, and then falling through the soil and running away in the drains, renews the supply of fresh air. In this way darins are of the greatest benefit. Drains actually diminish the loss of plant food by washing away. Stagnant water is injurious to the roots of plants. They will not grow in it. Draining removes this, and hence the plants send down their roots deeper. Consequently their capability of absorbing nourishment is greatly increased. It is this increased depth of the roots in well drained soil which renders the crops growing on them less liable to suffer from drouth than those on imperfectly drained land.

Although rain, washing the surface and running off by open channels, may and does dissolve and wash away a considerable quantity of nutritive matter, the water which sinks into the land carries these nutritive substances deeper down into the soil and deposits them in the lower portions where the roots of the plants are to be found, and where these roots can seize and absorb these soluble matters. Draining causes the rain to sink through a considerable thickness of soil before it runs off, and hence it causes less loss of nutritive matter than is occasioned by rain washing soil as it does in undrained land, carrying off to the streams and rivers much of the valuable nutritive matter that abounds on the surface.

FULL GUARANTEE.

EXPLANATION AND ELABORATION

OF WANAMAKER & BROWN'S NEW PLAN.

1st POINT. "CASH."

Houses doing a credit business must provide for losses on bad debts, interest on long-standing accounts, capital locked up, etc. To bear such losses themselves would drive them out of business. Therefore a per cent. is added to the price of each article sold, to cover this leakage, and Cash Buyers whether they know it or not, really pay the bad debts and the interest on the long credits of the other customers!! Under the Cash Payment system one pays only for what he gets, and contributes nothing to a "Sinking Fund."

By this Radical Change we shall lose some of our customers no doubt, but we will gain ten where we lose one, the advantages being so great to all who can avail themselves of them. So we say

CASH THROUGHOUT.

Bring Money for Clothing, and we will supply it at prices possible under no other plan.

2d POINT. "ONE PRICE."

The fairness of this feature of our plan all will praise. It is simply treating all alike—exacting nothing from indisposition to bargain or ignorance, and, at the same time, conceding all that shrewdness on the shrewdest customer's part could possibly extort, because the "One Price" which we mark on our goods, shall invariably be

NOT the "First" Price, but the LAST and LOWEST PRICE.
NOT the "TOP" Price, but the VERY BOTTOM PRICE.

In other words, Salesmen or "Headmen," have never been allowed, under ordinary circumstances, to fall below a certain figure! It is at that, or at a lower figure that we now determine to mark our goods, calculating the cost to the exact penny, and fixing the price at the low minimum profit on which business on a large scale can be conducted.

We know that the larger business we aim for and anticipate, will require a large increase in the number of customers, and we shall therefore see to it that the "One Price" is based on the Smallest Profit, calculated to the exact and lowest penny, which will not be difficult to do with universal Cash Payment for the rule. The price will be marked in plain figures and no alteration allowed.

NOTE.—Whenever the exigencies of the season, the state of trade, or the money market may demand, the right is reserved to go through our stock before or after business hours and mark down any lot or lots of goods, changing the figures on all the labels, so that the new rates are the same to all, and all buy alike at the mark down prices.

WANAMAKER & BROWN WILL NEVER HOLD THEIR GOODS.

3d POINT. "Full Guarantee."

A printed Guarantee, bearing the signature of our firm, will accompany each garment as a Warrantee. This binds us in every sense, and will be honored as quickly as a good draft of the Government of the United States. This is a sample of the Full Guarantee, and tells its own story:

GUARANTEE.

We hereby guarantee

1st. That the prices of our goods shall be as low as the same quality of material and manufacture are sold anywhere in the United States.
2d. That the prices are precisely the same to everybody for same quality, on same day of purchase.
3d. That the quality of goods is as represented on printed labels.
4th. That the full amount of cash paid will be refunded, if customers find the articles unsatisfactory, and return them unworn and uninjured within 10 days of date of purchase.

[Signed,] WANAMAKER & BROWN,
OAK HALL,
Sixth and Market Streets, Phila.

DATE,.....

4th POINT. "Cash Returned."

This is simply a concession on our part to our customers, to secure them full confidence in dealing for goods they know very little about, and we thus prevent any occasion for dissatisfaction from any and every cause whatsoever. If the garment is not exactly what you thought, if your taste changes, if the "home folks" prefer another color or another shape, if you find you can buy the same material and style elsewhere for less money, if you conclude you don't need it after you get home, if the season changes suddenly and you wish you had not bought it, bring it back unworn and uninjured, and the full amount of money you paid will be returned on the spot. What more can we do for our customers than this, when we make our clothing so that they can draw the money value with it equally as well as with a check on the bank?

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.
INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION,

should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS. — While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION. — The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

EGYPTIAN
Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

HOLLOWAY'S
Pills and Ointment

EVERY MAN HIS OWN PHYSICIAN.

THE GRAND PRINCIPLE that operates in these wonderful medicines is the power that they possess in purifying the turbid blood, and expelling corrupt humors from the system.

Both the ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases: Bunions, Burns, Chapped hands, Chilblains, Fistula, Gout, Lumbago, Mercurial Eruptions, Piles, Rheumatism, Ring-Worms, Salt Rheums, Scalds, Skin Diseases, Swelled Glands, Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Sore Heads, Sore Throats, Sores of all kinds, Sprains, Stiff Joints, Tetter, Ulcers, Venereal sores, Wounds of all kinds.

USE HOLLOWAY'S EXPECTORANT for the absolute cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest, and all affections of the Pulminary nature.

CAUTION.

Be careful and see that each bottle has the Holloway and Co. trade mark on it.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

AT PRIVATE SALE.

A valuable farm containing 215 acres, situate within one mile of Milesburg, and three miles of Bellefonte, at the junction of the Bald Eagle Valley and Snow Shoe railroads, near the depot, Schools, Churches, Post office, Mills, etc. The lands are FREE from STONE, level, well fenced, and under a good state of cultivation. A valuable vein of

LIME STONE ROCK

is on the farm, and a village is growing up around it, which gives a fair prospect of an increase in value before long. The Philipsburg turnpike runs through it for a distance of ½ of a mile rendering a large strip on each side available for house lots, from which the entire price of the farm might be realized, lots having sold heretofore for $100 apiece. The farm is well watered, having water in all the fields, good wells at the house and barn with pumps all in good order. There also are 50 acres of good

PINE AND OAK TIMBER.

The land has a southern exposure and is therefore very early. There are two houses on the farm, both facing the turnpike. One containing five rooms on the first floor with Hall and five on the second and back Kitchen, with room over-head. Connected with this house is a good log barn, ice house and other out buildings. On the other side of the road is the other house containing eight rooms with good barn and out buildings. This farm could be divided into two parts, and will be if purchasers so desire, making one containing 150 acres with the large house, and the other containing 36 acres with the small house. ELAINE

AS AN ILLUMINATOR.

WHY IT IS THE SAFEST.

ELAINE will not explode while burning in a lamp, nor in any other way, as it does not contain any of the explosive compounds so frequently met with in the ordinary oil for illuminating. A lamp, filled with ELAINE, if upset or accidently broken, will not explode or burn. There is no position in which you can put a lamp filled with ELAINE, for common use, in which it will explode. As no other illuminator has such advantages of safety, ELAINE IS CERTAINLY THE SAFEST FAMILY ILLUMINATING OIL KNOWN.

Bellefonte and County.

——Milesburg boasted dandelions in bloom last week.

——The Democratic party have been playing Brutus all over the County.

——Daicy, late of Philipsburg, will be fifteen years older the next money he steals.

——Fred Kurtz's liver must be out of order. Just read his editorials on the result.

——The "Opera" cigar sold by James Welch is now all the rage, nothing like it, and five cents. 40-tf

——Our Congressman elect, didn't want any Bellefonters to run a campaign paper for him.

——The state geological survey has found the lower silurian. They felt it crumble last Tuesday.

——Judge Orvis is holding Court in Clearfield this week. Judge McEnnally is practicing law in that county.

——It will now be in order for Wallace and Buckalew to have a little tournament for the U. S. Senatorship.

——The Centre Reporter is yellow with old age before it reaches this office. Last week's paper came on Monday.

——Our exchanges for the past week have been exceedingly dry and uninteresting—nothing but election returns.

——Speaking of age, it is something remarkable that Hon. L. A. Mackey reached his majority in this county at three.

——How did the bull look on emerging from the china-shop?—A little the worse for the ware. Dutto, the Republican party.

——There are over 24,000 idiots in the country, acknowledged as such; besides the fellows that hang around the church doors.

——Felix Mullen, Esq., wants to die. He vowed to live till Pennsylvania would go Democratic, and now his occupation's gone.

——What's the cause of all this smoke? Can't the Democracy get over their victory without making bon-fires of the mountain forests?

——We welcome to the ranks of the Republican party, the Hon. James McManus. He can't stay with a party that Massachusetts belongs to.

——A large yellow dog tried to bite the wheel off a passenger car while the car was in motion at the depot on Friday evening, but he died in the attempt.

——An Indiana man sued a newspaper for libel and dropped dead within a week after commencing the suit. Some fellers will learn a few things by and by.

——It is estimated that several hundred men in this county were debarred from voting on Tuesday because they had not paid their taxes thirty days before.

THANKSGIVING HINT.—Charcoal is recommended for fattening turkeys. It should be pulverized and mixed with mashed potatoes and cornmeal, as well as fed to them in small lumps.

——Two lawyers stumped Pennsvalley during the late campaign. Average length of speeches three hours and a half. It always got exciting for the audience after the second hour. Number one told some anecdotes and his colleague, a young man of active habits, went around with a flail and woke 'em up.

——Centre County gave Latta 965, Orvis 639, Wallace 844 and Mackey 3 of a majority, and rolled up a Democratic majority for the county ticket, that even surprised the candidates. We don't propose to brag much about this, but we want it understood that we did not emigrate from Massachusetts for nothing.

——Sanford's minstrel troupe played to a large audience on Saturday evening. The entertainment was a rich medley of old-time plantation songs, sayings, dances, and other side-splitting performances. By the way it would be a very creditable thing to scrub or sweep out that hall. When the audience rose to leave on Saturday evening a cloud of dust arose that was almost suffocating.

AN INTERESTING LETTER.—John F. Potter, Esq., the District Attorney, has seen proper to publish a letter in the last Watchman, defending himself against the charges made against him in the late canvass which resulted in his defeat for a second term. The charges made against him were of a grave and serious nature and Mr. Potter has done well to clear himself, which he certainly does in his lucid and business-like denial of the charges made against him. We reproduce some extracts from his letter which refutes the unjust charges. It is little wonder that Mr. Potter, saw fit to support our candidate for the office of District Attorney, when members of his own party resorted to so base measures to oust him. Here are the extracts:

My first answer is that I never settled a liquor case nor did I ever retain a cent for setting this or any other class of cases. There was money left in an indirect way in my possession which was paid over to the county Treasury, but not one cent was ever retained by me. I was different times offered large fees to settle large liquor cases and was threatened at the same time when I refused to smuggle for them, that it was the last time I would be District Attorney. Second, I never forced any one into court; any one can see that, nobody would pay me for forcing them into court. Third, I never took an illegal fee. If it were true, it would be a misdemeanor in office and I would be liable to a fine of five thousand dollars, a year's imprisonment and a removal from office. Why, then, not teach me a profitable lesson, if I had ever done or attempted to do so? As to Samuel Armagost, who was returned for fornication and bastardy, the case was settled April session, 1873, by his agreeing to pay three hundred dollars in installments of fifty dollars each, every six months, until it was all paid, and to pay the cost of prosecution. The first fifty dollars were paid down to Daniel Bohn, the man whom the girl was living with. The costs, some twenty dollars Armagost asked me to wait upon until the next week. I agreed to favor him; he came the 30th of September and said that he had bad luck, but that he would pay it the following week. He asked me to loan him eighteen dollars to get some express goods out of the office. I gave it to him, he promising to return it with the costs. The costs were collected a few days ago, by the justice of the peace and I have not received the eighteen dollars. This is the way I received fifty dollars, Armagost had never paid the balance to the girl, and yet such a story was circulated in good faith against me. There never was a wood-chopper returned to court, nor did I ever receive a cent from one. Neither did I ever present an unitemized bill of fees to the county Commissioners, nor did they reduce my fees one cent. I explained through the columns of the Watchman and Reporter that I had paid out of my own pocket a large amount of Commonwealth costs, as a favor to witnesses, and that the Commissioners would not pay it to me until the prisoners were discharged from the Penitentary, thereby doing me a great injustice. Fourth, the office, as I stated before, was only worth to me from eight hundred to a thousand dollars a year. This, any one can see by examining the Quarter-Session Docket. Fifth, I have never retained any witness costs, nor did I ever deny them one cent of costs due them. If I have wronged any man out of a cent, let him charge me so publicly, and let the penalty of the law be inflicted. I have been unjustly and schemingly wronged, and would not have published these answers, had not some of my friends urged me to do so, as well as a personal duty to myself. I feel conscious of having discharged my duty as District Attorney with out fear or favor, I no doubt disappointed some by not disregarding my oath and duty. With these explanations I close for the present, not blaming the party for not re-nominating me for the second term as it was the custom and usage of the party so to do, but only blame the ring without the party for my defeat.

——We have been annoyed considerably lately by some of our subscribers complaining that they do not receive our paper. We have repeatedly cautioned our carrier to be very careful and leave the paper where it would not be blown away and when possible to open the front door and leave it in the hall way and announce its arrival by a pull at the bell or knock upon the door. In some cases the front door is locked and the paper has to be left on the step. We take this opportunity to inform that subscriber on Spring street beyond Bishop who has been annnoyed so much lately, that they will do well to keep an eye on a certain neighbor, and if our carrier detects said neighbor in stealing the REPUBLICAN again she will receive a copy free the next week, in which she will have the pleasure of seeing her name published in these columns as a warning to all against her petty larcenies. If this article falls under the eye of any other newspaper thieves they can also take its meaning to themselves.

——A. S. S. Institute will be held in the Baptist Church, Martha Furnace, on Friday P. M. and evening, November 20th. Afternoon session will be given to scholars and teachers, the evening to parents and others. Speakers are engaged to deliver opening addresses upon topics timely and practical. The presence of all preachers in the vicinity is specially desired. All are requested to come early and bring their Bibles.

Pray for God's blessing upon the meeting. Other places desiring local Institutes may be provided for by addressing D. S. Keller, Esq., or Rev. R. Crittenden, Bellefonte.

The Institute in Fillmore M. E. church is held next Friday P. M. and evening, Nov. 13th. A good meeting is anticipated.

——The President has appointed the 29th of November, as a day of National Thanksgiving If he wants to draw out all the latent gratitude in the country he might change it to Election day, November, 1876.

——On last Monday, Dr. Joseph McMicken of Mill Hall, departed this life. He was a singularly successful physician and a genial gentleman. His demise will be deeply felt by that community.

——Would some prophetic individual kindly let us know where the Local Option law will be one week after the new Legislature meets?

——How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have to pay bets to these disagreeably jubilant Democrats for beating us in the late election.

——Look here now this won't do. The Democrats are quarreling among themselves because some candidates had larger majorities than others. Hogs.

EUREKA.—I have found at last the best 5 ct. cigars to be had in the State Inquire for the "Opera" brand and try them if only one.

——The most surprising occurrence, after the election, was mistaking one of our members of the Legislature, elect, for a minister of the gospel, by a Bald Eagle congregation last Sunday. Let every true christian blush.

——A book-agent called on us yesterday and asked us to buy "The Bible Looking Glass." We couldn't do it, but sent him to the church sewing society, because we thought the above title would induce the ladies to look into it.

——The mountains in the neighborhood of Bellefonte were ablaze with fire last week. The Muncy mountain was covered with fire, on Sunday night, from Linn & McCoy's forge, several miles above Milesburg. Much valuable timber has been destroyed by mountain fires during the past week.

——Foote, the Berichter man, called into our office on Friday to ask us what we thought of his joke about that portrait of Mr. Mackey, standing on two platforms, which he said was a perfect representation of ourself coming up the stairway of the REPUBLICAN office. We told him it was the best hit of the campaign and he went away as happy as if he had found a whip-lash.

——Mr. Mackey, congressman elect, telegraphed to Bellefonte last Friday to know what his official majority was. The reply flashed back—"three." He couldn't understand it, and wired back—"don't you mean three hundred?" After considerable trouble and telegraphing he got the fact fixed in his mind that three was all his official majority in Centre County. Well, well, Alexander scared him right thoroughly any how!

——We have hitherto neglected to mention the fact that Hardman Richards, who was convicted of the murder of a man named Williams of Worth twp., this county, and sentenced to an imprisonment of six years in the Western penitentiary, died in his cell about two weeks ago. He was a stout hardy man when committed but confinement and remorse broke him down and he died of rapid consumption. His remains were brought to his former home for interment.

——The young man Douglas, who was shot by a comrade who mistook his head and gray cap for a wild cat, is in a fair way to recover, his condition thus far having improved daily. The ball did not enter at the temple as at first reported, but penetrated the skull above the corner of the left eye and came out above the right eye. The hunter firing the shot was about one hundred and twenty yards from Douglas and no blame attaches to him for the unfortunate mistake.—Journal.

——Some time since an item appeared in this paper in regard to John DeLong of Penns Valley, the best preserved man of his age in the state, which calls forth an inquiry from a Howard subscriber in regard to Mr. John Meyers of Hublersburg, who is now living with his second wife and is the father of thirty-one children, besides being grand father and great grand father of a small regiment of other decendants. Will some of our subscribers in that vicinity give us an account of John Meyers, the great Centre County producer.

——The Lock Haven papers give brilliant accounts of the marriage last week, of Miss Addie Kintzing, eldest daughter of Mr. T. C. Kurtzing, president of the First National Bank of Lock Haven, to Mr. B. F. Willing, of Philadelphia. The spacious grounds, the family mansion, the parlors, were all beautifully illuminated, and hosts of admiring friends were gathered together. Congratulations, music, God-bless-yous, pledges and presents of friendship, all mingled together delightfully and gave the happy couple an encouraging send off into the happy hunting grounds of wedded life.

——Although the election resulted disastrously to the Republican party in the County, yet all honest Republicans will not lay the blame to our most efficient Chairman of the County committee, S. Durbin Gray, Esq. Mr. Gray was indefatigable in his efforts to organize the party. Our convention was held at such a late day that he had but a few weeks to work, but during that time he was busy almost day and night. He left nothing undone that was needful and had it not been for his ability as an organizer, and his careful judgment, the opposition majority would have been considerably more than it was. Mr. Gray certainly deserves the thanks of the party.

For the REPUBLICAN.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—The election of last week produced some wonderful results. There are few things about the campaign, the vote and the result on which I would like to get your opinion, and that of your Centre County readers. Could you tell me why the Republican vote was over 600 less than it was last year? They have not gone to the Democrats because the latter only polled the strength of the party. They staid at home. Don't you think that a party without any organization, any defined plan of action, without any definite object in view, and with not sufficient interest in the election to turn out to vote, don't you think, Mr. Editor, that that party deserves to be beaten?

I would like also to inquire who is the father of that scheme which nominated but one legislative candidate? The result demonstrates that it was the very best thing that could have been done for the opposition. Perhaps the lesson of the late campaign will be of some benefit to the Republican leaders of your town. Again, I would like to inquire where was the Centre County Temperance Union? Last year this organization displayed considerable generalship in pledging the candidates to maintain the Local Option law, and thereby throw the temperance vote (mostly Republican) for the Democratic candidates. That dodge did very well last year for the Democracy, this year different tactics had to be pursued. The O. T. U. of course feels as much interest in temperance and in the maintenance of the local option law as it ever did. Of course it does. It held a convention at Milesburg last fall and agonized to find some way by which it could get Centre County's delegation to labor and vote to keep the local option law in force. Ministers of the Gospel, good men, temperate, well meaning, earnest, zealous tetotelers, all were determined to send none to high and responsible offices who would not labor in the cause of the temperance reform movement. The result produced gave the Democratic county ticket an increased majority. The leaders—or leader—of the organization had so willed it, so it resulted. How was it this year? Instead of having one assembly man to vote for or against the local option law, there were two to be elected. The Democracy nominated two gentlemen who were known to be opposed to the local option law. The Republicans nominated a temperance man,—one who has always been a temperate and a temperance man. What did the O. T. U. do? It did nothing. Its leaders—or leader—knew that any open, public steps to elect a temperance man, would be prejudicial to the Democratic nominees. The O. T. U. was therefore gagged. It stepped down and out pro tempore. The cock that fought so well last fall, didn't show a spur this fall. The sauce for last fall's goose was no sauce for this year's bird. I don't find any fault with any of the temperance people of the county. If they as temperance men vote against the success of the cause they espouse, the cause they preach and pray for, that is their business and not mine. If they will allow themselves to be duped by political tricksters—or trickster,— upon them rests the responsibility. They are certainly open to the charges of grossest insincerity. What honest temperance man will now have any thing to do with the organization? Who will not hoot at and laugh it to scorn when it essays another public effort? Who will subscribe money to maintain it in the interest of political tricksters and the Democratic party? The next state legislature will without doubt repeal or modify the present local option law. It has the material to do it. And the temperence people of Centre County—the temperance leaders—have voted in two men who will help to do it. I am not speaking for or against the present local option law; neither am I reflecting on the temperance people who voted in favor of their principles, but I do say that there are certain politicians who have espoused the temperance cause, who have sold out to the liquor interest. You understand me, Mr. Editor, and so do they. And when next they attempt to get up a temperance movement in the county let all honest men beware, or they will again be sold out to their foes. VINDEX.

——Lock up your houses. There is, without doubt, a party of burglars and thieves in town. On Tuesday of last week, some unknown party or parties entered the house of Rev. Mr. Allen on Allegheny street, but were discovered and fled before any damage was done. On Thursday night about two o'clock two men tried to force an entrance through a back door into the house of Jno Sweeny on Bisop street. Sweeny overheard them and raising an alarm, scared them away. On Saturday morning, a gentleman informed us that his smoke house had been broken into and about forty dollars worth of meat stolen. He also said he had detected two men attempting to enter his cellar the same night and that he fired two shots from his revolver at them before they got away. At his request we withhold his name. It is therefore necessary that everybody should be on their guard and prepared for these midnight visitors.

——James Welch is the only agent for the sale of the celebrated "Opera" cigar in Bellefonte. 40-tf

——Mr. S. A. Brew, the new grocery man in Humes' block, has taken his son into partnership with him and the new firm, as will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, is now S. A. Brew & Son.

——Mr. Geo. L. Potter will again be found at the depot, with his father, Captain W. W. Potter, in charge of the railroad business at this place. No more competent and obliging official can be found any where.

——The Watchman says a new depot at this place is talked of. We hope it won't end in talk. There could not possibly be a worse and more dangerous arrangement than the one existing at the present. There is scarcely a day that somebody does not come near being injured and it requires the most vigilent care of the railroad officials, every day, to prevent accident. Give us a new depot!

——Two houses belonging to Messrs J. E. Dougherty and A. K. Lingle, in Rush township, were destroyed by fire on Friday evening of last week. The houses, furniture, clothing and provision were almost entirely lost. The flames spread from the houses to an adjoining barn which was also destroyed with all its contents, consisting of hay, grain, two pair of sleds and a lot of farming and carpenter tools.

NOTICE.—As there has been a notice in several of the papers stating that the policy holders of the Pennsylvania Fire Insurance Company of Philadelphia would not be protected by the courts, owing to its failure to comply with the law, I would say for the benefit of the policy holders in this county, that it is a mistake, it should have read the Penn Fire, a company only about two (2) years old, while the Pennsylvania Fire is a time-honored institution, having been in the field for forty-nine (49) years. Parties desiring, can at any time examine the Insurance Commissioner's Report in my office, as to the standing of any comp ny doing business in Pa.

JOHN I. RANKIN, Agent.

DYSPEPSIA.—Dyspepsia is the most discouraging and distressing desease man is heir too. Americans are particularly subject to this desease and its effects; such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, heartburn, water-brash, gnawing and burning pains in the pit of the stomach, coming up of the food, coated tongue, disagreeable taste in the mouth, impure blood and all diseases of the Stomach and Liver. Two doses of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER will relieve you at once, and there positively is not a case in the United States it will not cure. If you doubt this go to your druggist, F. Potts Green, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. 6-44-eow-1y

CORRECTION.—We hasten to correct a statement we made last week, which although it was done innocently by us did great injustice to an innocent man and a good citizen. Some unknown party wrote and hung on our copy-hook a local to the effect that Mr. Thomas Loughry, proprietor of the Landracan House in this place, "had been convicted in the U. S. Court last week for selling liquor without an U. S. license and was sentenced to pay a fine of $1000.00 and to serve a term of six months in the Western Penitentiary." In the hurry and bustle attending our publication day after the election, the article slipped in and we knew nothing of it until a gentleman called on us and said there was not a word of truth in it. This is all we know about the article. We did not write it and the compositor says he found it on the copy-hook. We'll wager considerable that the like will not happen again. Mr. Loughry was never convicted of selling liquor without an U. S. license, never sentenced to pay a fine of $1000.00 nor to go to prison. The article did him great injustice, and we make these statements not at his request or suggestion, but because the statement was not true. Mr. Loughry is a law abiding citizen, an honest man and the proprietor of a good hotel, the Landracan House.

UNIONVILLE, Nov. 9th, 1874.

DEAR SIR.—It is probably known to you ere this that on Tuesday the 3rd inst. that Unionville as usual rolled up a fair Republican majority. Of course, the returns from other sections, showing a large gain for the other side, was somewhat of a surprise. But nothing daunted and with the cheerful motto "all's well that ends well," instead of sullen looks, bright smiles and jolly congratulations were the order of the day, and on Saturday the 7th, a grand union rally was made—not to the court house but to the Presbyterian church ground, where a suitable amount of lumber was in readiness for present use. About 25 men members of the Methodist, Baptist and Friend's Society joined us on the ground, some bringing shovels, hammers, saws, picks, planes, etc. At about 8 o'clock, A. M., it looked quite war like and work soon began in earnest. A fine company under the command of Benjamin Rich, Esq., graded off the front path and by dinner time had completed a good solid board-walk, 8 feet wide. Another walk was laid around the Parsonage lot by a diligent party under the supervision of John Alexander, Esq. At the same time, another party was planing, edging and arranging to enclose the church lot, and soon, almost as if by magic, a neat picket fence enclosed the whole. As usual, the ladies must have something to do and say in the matter, and so at 12 o'clock, they invited us around to a table spread in a pleasant part of the yard, with an abundance of every thing that is good, and to which we did full justice. At 4 o'clock, everything being completed we separated, each one seeming well pleased with himself and every one else, feeling that not only had a good work been done, but that a very pleasant day had been spent. With many thanks to all.

Respectfully yours,

"BERGEN."

MESSRS EDITORS:—In your paper of last week we were charged by James Schofield as having his harness placed to our credit in the premium list of the late fair, which we deny and can prove it as false. He also charged us with moving his harness. Mr. James Fury, one of the committee to place goods in their proper places, moved his harness, one set marked lumber harness. Most lumber men would call them cart gears that are used in this country in an Irishman's sulkey or cart. Also one set marked gold mounting. Most farmers and horsemen would think they were galloping mule or jackass harness. We do not want the credit of his of any other man's make of harness but our own, as we had on exhibition two of the finest sets of harness that ever were exhibited in Centre county, also the largest display of saddlery and lumber harness. J. H. McCLURE & SON.

POLITICAL NOTES.

SOME of the ex-candidates are very anxious to be made acquainted with the best remedy for scratches. Essence of peppermint applied to the afflicted parts is said to give great relief.

—The Democracy which has laid dormant for the last fifteen years, has at last spunked up a little and managed to elect a few Democrats to office. But what of it? It is merely a spurt, and like a young man's mustache we noticed the other day, is too sickly to live,

—The Hon. L. A. Mackey ought to hunt up that fellow in Taylor twp., who gave him that one vote and pension him for life. It is almost worth a man's life to stand up against such odds. We think it must have been the same enthusiastic Democrat who voted for Allison White for Congress in 1860.

—Now since the election is over, Fred Kurtz, of the Centre Hall Reporter, crawls bravely from his hole and informs the people that the result of the election is just what he has been prophesying since last July, and that he knew from the beginning of the campaign just who would be elected and who wouldn't. Now is it not wonderful how much knowledge one human cranium is capable of holding? Why, if a few such men as he could get control of the affairs at Washington, how they would tear things to pieces.

THE return Judges of the Congressional, Senatorial and Judicial districts met in the Court House in Bellefonte yesterday and footed up the several county returns as follows:

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE.

ST. ELMO, Ill., July 8, 1874.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:—I wish to add my testimony to the wonderful curative properties of your Anti Fat., or Golden Medical Discovery. I have taken great interest in this medicine since I first used it. I was badly afflicted with dyspepsia, liver deranged and an almost perfect prostration of the nervous system. So rapid and complete did the Discovery effect a cure that it seemed more like a magic and a perfect wonder to myself, and since that time we have never been without a bottle of the Discovery and Purgative Pellets in the house. They are a solid, sound family physician in the house and ready at all times to fly to the relief of sickness—without charge. We have never had a doctor in the house since we first began the use of your Pellets and Discovery. I have recommended the use of these medicines in several severe and complicated cases, arising from, as I thought, an impure blood, and in no one case have they failed to more than accomplish all they are claimed to do. I will only mention one as remarkable, (though I could give you dozens). Henry Koster, furniture dealer, of this place, who was one of the most pitiful objects ever seen, his face swollen out of shape, scales and eruptions without end, extending to the body, which was completely covered with blotches and scales. Nothing that he took seemed to effect it a particle. I finally induced him to try a few bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery, with the daily use of the Pellets, assuring him it would cure him. He commenced its use some six weeks since, taking two Pellets each night for a week, then one each night, and the Discovery as directed. The result is, to-day his skin is perfectly smooth, and the scalp eruptions are gone. He has taken some seven or eight bottles in all, and considers himself cured. This case has baffled the skill of our best physicians. Messrs Dunsford & Co., druggists, of this place, are selling largely of your medicines and the demand steadily increases, and they give perfect satisfaction in every case.

Respectfully, W. H. CHAPLIN
